THE CHILDREN.

The following beautiful poem was written by Charles Dickeps: When the leasons and tasks are all ond.

And the school for the day is dismissed,
And the little cars gather around me
Tobid me good-night and be kined;

! the little white arms that encircle: My teck in a tender carbrace: ! the suries that are halos of heaven, Shedding sunshine of love on my face And when they are gone I sit dreaming Of my childhood, too lovely to last: Of love that my hourt will remember, While it wakes to the pulse of the past, Ere the world and its wickedness unde me

A pariner of serrow and sin; Vhen the glory of God was about me, And the glory of whethers within: Of my heart grows weak as a woman's, And the fountains of feeling will flow,
When I think of the paths steep and stony.
Where the feet of the dear ones must mo:
Of the mountains of sin hanging o'er them,
Of the tempest of Fate blowing wild:
O' there's nothing on earth half so holy
As the innocent heart of a child!

They are idols of hearts and of households:
They are angels of God in disguise;
His sunlight still sleeps in their treases;
His glory still gleans in their eyes.
O! these truants from home and from heave
They bave made me more manly and mile
And I know now how Jesus could liken
The kingdom of God to a shild.

I ask not a life for the dear ones, All radiant, as others have done; But that life may have just enough shadow. To temper the glare of the sun;

I would pray find to gnard them from evil, But my prayers would bound back to mysel Ah! a seraph may pray for a sinner, But a sinner must pray for himself.

The twig is so easily bended,
I have banished the rule and the rod;
I have taught them the goodness of knowledge
They have taught me the goodness of God
My beart is a dangoon of darkness,
Where I shut them from breaking a rule:
My force is sufficient corrections. My frown is sufficient correction; My love is the law of the school,

I shall leave the old house in the autumn, To traverse its threshold no more:
Ah! how I shall sigh for the dear ones.
That meet me cach more at the door!
I shall miss the "good nights" and the kies
And the gush of their innecent glee.
The group on the green, and the flowers
That are brought every morning to me.

I shall arise them at more and at eve—
Their song in the school and the street;
I shall miss the low him of their voices,
And the tramp of their delicate feet,
When the lessons are all ended,
And Death says, "The school is dismissed!

May the little ones gather around me, To bid good-night and be kirned. CONSIDER THE LILLIES OF THE FIELD." UNIVERSITY PRIZE PORM, BY W. H. PLLIS R.

O weary child of toil and care, Trembling at every cloud that lowers, Come and behold how passing fair Thy God bath made the flowers. From every hillside's sunny slope, From every forest's leafy shade. The flowers, sweet messengers of Hope, Rid thee "Be not afraid."

The Wind-flower blossoms in yonder boxer, All heedless of to morrow's storm; Nor trembles for the coming shower The Lilly's stately form.

No busy shuttle plied to deck With sunset that the blushing Rese; And little does the Harchell reck; Of toil and all its woos.

The Water Lilly, pure and white,

Floats idly on the summer stream Seeming almost too fair and bright For aught but Poet's dream. The gorgeous Tulip, though arrayed

In gold and gems, knows naight of care: The Violet in the mossy stade, Of labor bath no share.

They toil not-yet the Lifly dyes Phonician fabrics far surpass. Nor India's rarest gem outvies The little Blue-gred Grass.

For God's own hand both clothed the flower With fairy form and rainbow hue; Hath nurtured them with furny showers, And watered them with flow. To day, a thousand blossoms fair,

From sunny slope or sholtered glade. With grateful incense fill the air-To morrow they shall lade. But thou shalt live when sinks in night

You glorious sun; and shall not lie Who bath thee flowers so righly dight. Much rather care for thee?

O faithless murmurer! thou mayest read A lesson in the lowly sed;
Heaven will supply thine every need;
Fear not, but trust in seed. THE HOT TERM OF JULY.

In the Chicago meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Science or Saturday evening, a paper was read by Professor O. N. Stoddard on the "Hot term. of July, little," from which we extract as follows: The remarkable storm on the morning of last June 18, in which six inches of water fell at Cincinnali, was made of three cur rents, the upper from the northwest, the middle from the northeast, and the lower ranging from southeast to southwest. All thestorms, however, of thet his vallev, as far -a known during the hot term and which scarcely interropted the intens heat, have been due to the ascent of portions of the atmosphere more heated than the rest. Some of these showers have been very violent, attended by brilliant electric discharges, but brief in duration, and only a few miles in breadth. That this possiliar condition of atmospheric currents has had some connection with the protracted heat is highly probable.

The persistent presence of the northeast to the exchains of the other winds, has at least tended to keep the weather in a uniform state, and to prevent those change which usually attend the mingling of differ-ent currents. On the 30th of July a regufar southwest wind set in and the liery hold of old Pluto was relaxed.

The region over which this unusual ten perature has been agore or less distinct! marked, embraces probably a belt, including on the north the Valley of the St Lawrence, the Lakes Ontario, Eric, and a part, perhaps all, of Huron and Michigan. This boundary curves somewhat to the north in crossing the Missiscippi basin, but its general direction is southwestwardly toward the mountains. The southern limits of the belt cannot be much, if any, forther south than North Carolina and Tennessee. The excess of temperature above the mean increases from the borders toward the center or axis of the belt. The belt appears to be curved toward the north, lying along the track of the northeast trade winds already mentioned. On the borders of the belt the atmospheric currents have been more variable than in the interior.

At Montreal, as I have learned since At Montreal, as I have learned since coming here, the wind was from the north, or a little west of north. This is just what might be expected from the pressing in at right angles to this axis of the belt of the might be expected from the pressing in at right angles to this axis of the belt of the cooler air along its borders. During the whole period the air has not been dry, the temperature in the hottest part of the day, with two or three exceptions, rising about eight degrees only above the dew point. The showers have been, xcept on the borders of the hot region, in and spiteful, striking the earth oftener than usual. While along the borders where the south and north winds were seeking entrance to this fiery belt, the rain has at intervals fallen in torrents. The hot term opened earlier in the East and traveled weatward, passing off in the same order. It began the last of June in the East, the second of July in Ohio, but was not fully installed until the 11th. There appears to be some exidence, but w much I do not as yet know, that the great curve in the Gulf stream Along the banks of Newfoundland, has moved further north this year than is generally the case. Should this be found to be the case, it would constitute an important element in the ex-planation of the intense heat there and in England, REPUBLATION AND REPUBLATORS. The bondholders of the government sometimes express their fear that repudigtion may be the result of political agitation. There is no repudiation, it is true, in either of the political platforms, and certainly not in the Democratic Platform, which proposes to pay every government obligation in the precise kind of money promised in the bond itself.

But is there not occasion, at times, to doubt the means of the government to execute its obligations? The man who spends more than he earns, in time must suspens payment. The merchant who lives beyond his means and his capital, cannot long live at all, as a merchant. The farmer whose crops and income are not equal to his taxes and expenses, must go by the board. There is no alternative. Extravagance cads in poverty, poverty in an inability to pay what you owe, when it is due, and this

The people, just now, are taxed all they can bear, and taxed upon every thing between production and consumption, and between infancy and old age. No other people upon the face of the country are taxed so much and Congress has made the United States the dearest country to live in upon the face of the earth. When a million men were in the field to be fed, clothed, moved and armed, when paper money was made as fast as the printing press could produce it, when the people were inspired by a love of country to save the Union and the produce it, when the people were inspired by a love of country to save the Union and the produce it. the government from dissolution, taxes were more easily paid than now. But as the debt grew, the demands increased, and, since the war, one billion four hundred millions of dollars has been raised by taxation. It has all gone, and the financial burdens every month become worse. In July, the debt increased $13,280,000; and, in June, over fifty-three millions of dol-

Congress was eight months in session not to reduce the army, not to economize in the navy, not to abridge offices and prevent extravagance, not to reform abuses, but to establish such governments at the South as would perpetuate Radical rule; and hence the increased debt and these enormous burdens upon the people which prompt men at times to call for repudia-tion. The way to avoid it is to secure a change of administration, and the way to compel it, nolens volens, is to perpetuate the power of the Radical party, which has expended more money in three years of peace than in three years of war. They keep up a standing army of nearly sixty thousand men, where twenty thousand more than twice the peace establishment of 1860 61 ald do as well. They require over $31,000,000 for a navy, with the country everywhere at peace and the country spoiled of one third of its commerce. The are expending a wasteful sum upon the civil service, and employ between eight and nine hundred officers in the Freedmens Bureau. In a word the Radical party has proved itself incapacitated to govern the country, and it is time its reign was closed. Those of it and in it who fear repudiation should ahandon it. To pay the debt there must be more official economy, or less official waste. Any change will be a relict. No government could be cursed with a worse set of rulers than those in Congress, who Corrugated and Plat-bottomed Evaporators, and Cane Juice Clarifiers ever introduced into the South. We are now fully under way, manufacturing our Celebrated brough than any Fan in the market.

It will clean wheat from smat, cheat, cockie, blighted, broken and shriveled grains and other impurities, leaving the best, healthy, plump and perfect grains to sow.

It cleans wheat for market without WASTE, saving the small grains.

It empties the wheat directly into the half bushed, thereby avoiding the WASTE, as well as the TIME and LABOR, formerly unarvoidable in measuring up the grain.

The mill rung smoother and with less noise, besides many other improvements over the ordinary Fanning Mill.

Grain dealers will give from twenty-five to fifty cents more for foul wheat cleaned on this than on the common but.
